 (a) A contour plot showing the effect of temperature (°C) on the inactivation of E. coli O157:H7 over time (min) at pH 7.0. The x-axis represents time from 0 to 120 minutes, and the y-axis represents temperature from 40 to 70 °C. Contours represent log reduction, with values increasing from 1.0 to 5.0 as temperature and time increase.
 (b) A contour plot showing the effect of time (min) on the inactivation of E. coli O157:H7 at different pH levels (5.0, 6.0, 7.0, 8.0) at 55 °C. The x-axis represents time from 0 to 120 minutes, and the y-axis represents pH from 5.0 to 8.0. Contours represent log reduction, with values increasing as time increases and pH decreases.
 (c) A contour plot showing the effect of temperature (°C) on the inactivation of E. coli O157:H7 at different pH levels (5.0, 6.0, 7.0, 8.0) for a fixed time of 10 minutes. The x-axis represents temperature from 40 to 70 °C, and the y-axis represents pH from 5.0 to 8.0. Contours represent log reduction, with values increasing as temperature increases and pH decreases.

Figure 1 is a line graph titled 'Percentage of total catch versus percentage of total effort'. The x-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total effort' and ranges from 0 to 100 in increments of 20. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total catch' and ranges from 0 to 100 in increments of 20. The graph plots the catch percentage for several fish species against the effort percentage. The species and their approximate catch percentages at 100% effort are: Yellow perch (~85%), Rock bass (~75%), White perch (~65%), Striped bass (~55%), and others. The graph shows that a small percentage of effort yields a disproportionately large percentage of the catch for certain species, particularly Yellow perch and Rock bass.

Figure 1 is a schematic diagram of the experimental setup for the study of the effect of the initial concentration of the monomer on the polymerization of methyl methacrylate. The diagram shows a reaction vessel containing a mixture of monomer (M) and initiator (I). The reaction is initiated by heat ($h\nu$) and proceeds through a series of steps: initiation ($I \rightarrow R^\bullet$), propagation ($R^\bullet + M \rightarrow R-M^\bullet$), and termination ($R-M^\bullet + R-M^\bullet \rightarrow R-M-R-M$). The final product is a polymer (P). The diagram also indicates the presence of a solvent (S) and a catalyst (C).

The figure is a schematic representation of the experimental design. It shows two horizontal timelines for 'Control' and 'Experimental' groups. Both groups start with a 'Pre-test' phase. The Control group then receives a 'Control' stimulus, while the Experimental group receives an 'Experimental' stimulus. Both groups are then subjected to a 'Post-test' phase. The Experimental group shows a significant increase in 'Post-test' performance compared to the Control group.

(a) Protein A: S (100%), P (0%), C (0%), B (0%)

(b) Protein B: S (100%), P (0%), C (0%), B (0%)

(c) Protein C: S (100%), P (0%), C (0%), B (0%)

(d) Protein D: S (100%), P (0%), C (0%), B (0%)

Council scraps 'No-El'

Philippines - The Philippine Press Council has decided to scrap its "No-El" (No Editorial) policy, which had been in place since 1992. The council, which is the highest body for the self-regulation of the press, said the policy was outdated and did not reflect the current state of the media industry. The council's decision was based on a study conducted last year, which found that the "No-El" policy was not being followed by most newspapers. The council also found that the policy was not effective in protecting the press from government interference. The council's decision is expected to be welcomed by the media industry, which has long been advocating for the abolition of the "No-El" policy.

2 Pinays have lock on champion wrestler's heart

Philippines - Two Pinay (Filipina) women have captured the heart of a champion wrestler, who is currently on a tour in the Philippines. The women, who are both Pinay models, have been seen with the wrestler at several public appearances. The wrestler, who is a former world champion, has been in the Philippines for several weeks, promoting his upcoming fight. The women have been seen with him at press conferences, press photos, and other events. The wrestler has been very popular in the Philippines, and his tour has been a success. The women's relationship with the wrestler has been a topic of speculation in the media.

Streets a window to Filipino soul

Philippines - The streets of the Philippines are a window into the Filipino soul, a place where the rich and the poor, the modern and the traditional, coexist. The streets are a place of life and activity, where people go to work, to school, to shop, and to socialize. The streets are a place of culture and tradition, where people celebrate their heritage and their identity. The streets are a place of hope and dreams, where people strive for a better life and a better future. The streets are a place of love and compassion, where people help each other and support each other. The streets are a place of beauty and grace, where people live and thrive. The streets are a window into the Filipino soul, a place where the heart of the nation is revealed.

Step-by-step skincare that works

SOME OF THE BEST ways to improve your skin are the simplest. But it's not always obvious which steps to take, and in what order, to get the best results.

The first step is to cleanse your skin. This removes dirt, oil, and makeup, which can clog pores and lead to breakouts.

Next, exfoliate. This helps to remove dead skin cells, which can make your skin look dull.

After cleansing and exfoliating, it's time to moisturize. This helps to keep your skin hydrated and healthy.

Finally, protect your skin from the sun. This is the most important step to prevent premature aging.

By following these simple steps, you can achieve clear, healthy skin.
